Spirit of 1916 needed today

Sinn Féin TD Aengus Ó Snodaigh and Dublin MEP Mary Lou McDonald with Sinn Féin's Local Election '09 Candidates in the Garden of Remembrance.

As the country faces the worst economic recession in decades people are looking for inspiration and hope to find a better way forward for Ireland. For the past decade and a half the politics of 'mé féin' as championed by Fianna Fáil-led Governments has rewarded the greed of the wealthy few and neglected the needs of many in our society. As a result our economy has been brought to its knees.

This Easter Sinn Féin in Dublin will again pay tribute to the unselfish men and women, boys and girls, who struck a blow for Irish freedom at Easter 1916 on the streets of our capital city. Their example is an inspiration because they were prepared to give their all to achieve Irish independence. The words of the Proclamation of the Irish Republic still motivate us:

"We declare the right of the people of Ireland to the ownership of Ireland...The Republic guarantees religious and civil liberty, equal rights and equal opportunities to all its citizens....cherishing all the children of the nation equally..."

Sinn Féin is working for a new Ireland based on the principles of equality outlined in the Proclamation. The politics of 'mé féin' have failed. It's time for the politics of Sinn Féin.

POBLACHT NA H EIREANN.
THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT OF THE IRISH REPUBLIC

IRISHMEN AND IRISHWOMEN: In the name of God and of the dead generations from which she receives her old tradition of nationhood, Ireland, through us, summons her children to her flag and strikes for her freedom.

Having organised and trained her manhood through her secret revolutionary organisation, the Irish Republican Brotherhood, and through her open military organisations, the Irish Volunteers and the Irish Citizen Army, having patiently perfected her discipline, having resolutely waited for the right moment to reveal itself, she now seizes that moment, and, supported by her exiled children in America and by gallant allies in Europe, but relying in the first on her own strength, she strikes in full confidence of victory.

We declare the right of the people of Ireland to the ownership of Ireland, and to the unfeathered control of Irish destinies, to be sovereign and indefeasible. The long usurpation of that right by a foreign people and government has not extinguished the right, nor can it ever be extinguished except by the destruction of the Irish people. In every generation the Irish people have asserted their right to national freedom and sovereignty; six times during the past three hundred years they have asserted it in arms. Standing on that fundamental right and again asserting it in arms in the face of the world, we hereby proclaim the Irish Republic as a Sovereign Independent State, and we pledge our lives and the lives of our comrades-in-arms to the cause of its freedom of its welfare, and of its exaltation among the nations.

The Irish Republic is entitled to, and hereby claims, the allegiance of every Irishman and Irishwoman. The Republic guarantees religious and civil liberty, equal rights and equal opportunities to all its citizens, and declares its resolve to pursue the happiness and prosperity of the whole nation and of all its parts, cherishing all the children of the nation equally, and oblivious of the differences carefully fostered by an alien government, which have divided a minority from the majority in the past.

Until our arms have brought the opportune moment for the establishment of a permanent National Government, representative of the whole people of Ireland and elected by the suffrages of all her men and women, the Provisional Government, hereby constituted, will administer the civil and military affairs of the Republic in trust for the people.

We place the cause of the Irish Republic under the protection of the Most High God. Whose blessing we invoke upon our arms, and we pray that no one who serves that cause will dishonour it by cowardice, inhumanity, or rapine. In this supreme hour the Irish nation must, by its valour and discipline and by the readiness of its children to sacrifice themselves for the common good, prove itself worthy of the august destiny to which it is called.

Signed on Behalf of the Provisional Government,

THOMAS J. CLARKE.
